

Arriving at the train station in Copenhagen

Starting at our Airbnb apartment in Copenhagen

Check out the rear-view mirror on the helmet

Our goal this year was to take a leisurely ride around Denmark. Even though it is a relatively flat country, it seemed as if we did a lot of climbing, so our legs were toasted by the end of our 460 mile tour. We started in Copenhagen, riding south to Mons Klint, then west through Lolland, down to the Koldkrigsmuseum on Langeland, then through Faeborg to the DanFos Universe on Als. Then north to Aarhus, east to Ebeltoft to ferry across to Sjælland's Odde and back to Copenhagen.

Dominick is tall, but not that tall

A "kill the seal" game at the zoo

Elephant sculpture at Copenhagen Zoo

On the ferry from Bogø to Stubbekøbing

Beautiful view of the Baltic Sea

Map check at a lunch stop

Elmelunde Kirke on Møn was built in 1075

Rolling onto another ferry

Rust staining in the gypsum cliff at Møns Klint

We look forward to spending 3 weeks in our tent

We didn't see as many old windmills as we expected

It's not easy being this neat

Warm enough for some pool time

Memorial for a shot down WWII bomber

Kevin thought that this fit him perfectly

Susan looking good poolside

Susan inspecting the crops

We sometimes prefer the gypsy look at our tent sites

Trying out an anti-aircraft gun

Entrance to an underground control room at the Cold War Museum at Stevnstort

Jumping for joy at the Danfoss Museum in Nordburg

Granite wheel rotates on water

Too cold to swim in the pool, so we read instead

Unusual hydraulic teeter-totter

Halfway through the tour and still smiling

We got lucky and toured a restored windmill open for school tours once each month

Part of a larger hydro-power children's exhibit

We carried a dozen books on the trip

The generator room for the restored windmill

Mirror exhibit at ARoS Kunstmuseum

Waiting to board the ferry from Ebeltoft to Sjællands Odde

Kevin & Susan strike the pose

At the ARoS Kunstmuseum in Aarhus

Your Rainbow Panorama on the roof of the ARoS Kunstmuseum in Aarhus

Family photo on the ARoS roof

Sunshine on the road to Aarhus

Reconstruction at the Viking Ship Museum in Roskilde

At the Kalo Slotsruin near Aarhus

Checking out the electric mower at the Trapholt Museum

Making rope at the Viking Ship Museum

Dressed for the part, but no killer instinct

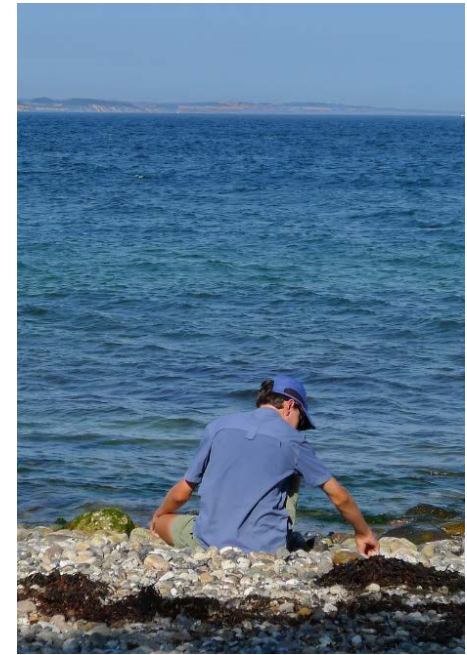

Nick Cave's Soundsuits at Trapholt

Susan & Dominick rowing out for a short sail

Sailing a traditional Nordic boat on Roskilde fjorde

A moment with rock and sea

Dominick replacing the drag brake cable

Looking toward Tivoli Gardens

Our last campground near Roskilde

At the National Gallery of Denmark

Heading to the airport on the train

Greek statues were painted in living color!

A final, well-deserved ice cream

